REDS DIG IN, REMINISCENT OF FIRST WORLD WAR

REMINISCENT of the first world war is this scene on the Russian battle front, showing Red army soldiers, bent double to escape enemy fire, moving along a curving trench to new positions. A bomb has just burst and a cloud of smoke can be seen in the background. Effectiveness of the Soviet infantry was shown recently when a group of soldiers succeeded in stopping a Nazi tank column.

THESE RUSSIAN machine-gunners are drawing a bead on an enemy on the northwestern front where spring thaws will make it impossible, it is said, for either the Reds or Nazis to launch more than local offensives for weeks.

RUSSIAN GUERRILLAS, most of them peasants or simple villagers, have caused great havoc to the invaders. A Red Army officer is seen instructing on how to throw hand grenades and on how to handle rifles and bayonets.

ACTION IN THE SKIES is watched by officers of the R.A.F. and the Red air force, who are fighting side by side. Four of the British fliers, recently returned home, were presented with the Order of Lenin by Ivan Maisky, Soviet ambassador to London, for conspicuous service.

MYSTERY FORTRESS OF PHILIPPINES BAFFLES JAPS

AGAINST CORREGIDOR, the powerful and invincible American island fortress in Manila Bay, wave after wave of Japan's bombers have for four months beaten in vain. Its anti-aircraft guns have shot down scores of attacking planes and its great siege cannon make Jap warships keep at a respectful distance. Here a few of its gunners run along a hidden forest path to their battle stations.

THE TWO SQUARE MILES of this rocky island that has been covered with green trees are honeycombed with tunnels. Along them motor cars can be driven, and they are provided with steel rails on which the heavy shells can be wheeled on trucks to the guns.

THIS WEIRD INSTRUMENT is a range finder. Corregidor made preparations for attack years ago and has a plentiful supply of this and every other device for accurate gunfire. The Japs' lack of success against the fortress caused their commander to suicide.

UNDER GEN. WAINWRIGHT, successor to Gen. MacArthur, Corregidor, assisted by forts on four smaller islets, keeps up its unparalleled resistance. This close-up of a gun crew in action shows how well the gun positions are camouflaged by the tropical vegetation.

STORED SAFELY in underground vaults are plenty of huge shells and food for the 8,000 defenders. Jap attacks have increased in intensity, but the defence has been stiffened by MacArthur's promise from Australia that he intends to relieve the Philippines.

BARE HANDS USED TO CUT NEW LIFELINE TO CHINA

NEW LIFELINE to China is the Assam-Sikang highway, being built to connect Chungking with Sadiya in India. The road, now one-third complete, will bear the brunt of traffic carrying war materials to China now that the Burma road has been cut off. A large portion of the new road runs at an elevation of 10,000 feet. Chinese coolies, above, labor with pick-axe and crowbar through solid rock.

ON COMPLETION of the road, China will have three links instead of one with the outside world. Over 7,000 lives have been lost by falls over cliffs, from exposure and illness since construction started.

TYPICAL of the difficulties being met in the building of the road is the above picture. This portion was cut through a solid cliff. The road has been under construction for a year and a half.

TWISTING AND TURNING, the new road winds through regions even more remote than on the Burma road. Kept a military secret is the route of the unfinished portion now in course of construction.

BOMB WRECKAGE—PRACTICE, AND THE REAL THING

DEMOLITION SQUADS QUICKLY and effectively swing into action in cities of Great Britain after the enemy has dropped his load of bombs. This is a view of Sheffield as it is today. It was taken in the vicinity of Angel Street after the blitz damage had been cleared away. Plans are already in progress for the building of new streets and homes on these sites after the war is won.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT, a United States field artillery regiment proves by scoring a direct hit during target practice. The flying debris is beyond recognition. It could be a tank or a plane but the caption reads "wooden shack." The gun on the firing end is a 155 mm. rifle, longest range field piece used by the U.S. army. It lobbs a shell with deadly accuracy about 17 miles.

ORIENTAL AND LATIN INFLUENCE IN FASHIONS

ORIENTAL STYLE is this new spring hat modelled and worn by pretty Jane Wyman, featured player in an R.K.O. Radio production. The print is a combination of Alice blue, dark blue soft rose and white. The attached veil, draped from a "fez," is covered with the same bright fabrics of bizarre prints.

THE SOUTH AMERICAN INFLUENCE is seen in the cool and refreshing new patio dress worn by Linda Damell of 20th Century Fox. Print is in shades of blue, rust and pale yellow and is posed against a rust jersey. It is highlighted with varied pottery colors on printed silk and silk jersey. Sparkling bracelets and ear-rings are in silver.

CASUAL AFTERNOON dress of red suede jersey is worn by Maria Montes of Universal Films. Red profile beret and accessories complete the outfit.

THIS HOUSECOAT of black and turquoise vertical strips in cotton shantung is favored by Claudette Colbert, Paramount star. Belt is fringed.

AN ALL-COTTON outfit is this ensemble modelled by Anne Boxer of R.K.O. Frock is natural white, embroidered with sprigs of flowers. The hat is made of strips of multi-colored cotton tape.

EVERYBODY'S CUTTING CLOTHES BUDGETS these war days—but some women are actually looking prettier than ever. And so can you! Singer can show you how to make dresses that fit you better than any you've bought in smart shops—in styles that flatter you and colours that become you. And you'll save half, besides. Here's how—

FREE LESSONS. If you are an amateur at sewing, come to the Singer Sewing Center and take some beginner's lessons, free. The teacher will show you how to adjust a pattern to your figure, how to make professional finishes, and many other fundamentals of good sewing. If you already sew, but need help with a sleeve, or the hang of a skirt—just drop in. The lessons and advice are free.

Dazzlers at half price—and how to get them

PERSONALITY PLUS. Have you noticed how the smartest dresses this year have a splash of something different—a bright applique or a new embroidery trick? It's fun to copy them with Singer's "magic finger" attachments. For example, the braidings on these mother-and-daughter frocks were done with a Singer Zigzagger. Other Singer attachments stitch in zippers, finish seams, make buttonholes—right on your sewing machine. Singer will show you how—free.

SAVE ON WAR CLOTHES. Maybe you have a job in a war factory. Or are doing volunteer duty. Singer will be glad to help you make your work smocks and uniforms at big savings. Call your Singer Sewing Center for an appointment, and let the teacher help you. There's no charge.

MALTA MOST BOMBED PLACE—HAS 2,000 ALERTS

MALTA WORKMEN employed in the naval dockyard drop their tools at an air alert, and nonchalantly enter a shelter. It's all an old story to them. They have had more than 2,000 air raid alarms.

ALTHOUGH DAMAGED BY BOMBS, the main street of Malta's capital is still a travelled thoroughfare. It once had an Italian name but now everything Italian is anathema to the Maltese.

THE POROUS ROCK on the island of Malta is easily tunnelled, and there is no lack of bomb-proof air raid shelters. In a quiet spell, these women and children sun themselves beside their shelter.

SPRING PLOWING goes on despite death that rains incessantly from the skies. Horses are at a premium, and farmers use their cows and mules to turn the rocky but strangely fertile soil.

BARK CONCEALS BITE

CAMOUFLAGE is a well known art to the men who are in charge of the big guns in the B.C. coastal batteries. They have had, so far, none of air-conscious Malta's experience of raids, but they cover the barrels with bark, just in case a Japanese airplane carrier comes near.

NOT LONDON, BUT DARWIN

FAMILIAR SCENE in a new setting. The picture shows a building on a main street of Darwin, Australia, wrecked by a raid of Japanese dive bombers on the northern coastal base. Like England after the collapse of France, northern Australia now lies as the prize in decisive short range air war.

WHILE VISITING AN AIRDROME in the south of England, the King and Queen saw parachute troops in action. Paratroops, some of whom had been in commando raids on France, dropped from a flight of bombers and formed up in ranks for inspection by the King and Queen. They are shown chatting.

ON RUSSIA'S WESTERN FRONT

THESE SHARP-EYED Soviet soldiers, somewhere around Lake Ilmen in the district southwest of Leningrad, make sure of their target before pouring their swift stream of death on the retreating German forces.

FOR THEIR MORNING wash, the hardy members of this Soviet tank crew employed not hot water, but cold snow.

THESE GIRLS HELPED to defend Leningrad. They are members of a first aid squad recruited from the students in the medical institute named after Pavlov, Soviet scientist world famous for work on conditioned reflexes.

GENERAL SIKORSKI, the leader of Free Poland, converses with feminine compatriots who form an auxiliary corps in Russia. Recently 60,000 Polish troops were sent to the Caucasus and Persia to stiffen that Allied front.

FUTURE ADMIRALS of the Russian navy are these sturdy, alert-looking students. The Soviet navy co-operated with British forces recently in driving off a Nazi attempt to destroy a large convoy bound for Russia from Britain.

THE WAR IS OVER for these Italians—they are members of the 79th infantry regiment of the "Pasubio" division, now among thousands of war prisoners in Russia.

HEAVY GUNS such as this, which Soviet industry has been turning out in great numbers, have played an important part in the counter drive against fortified Nazi winter positions.

FROM KITCHEN SHELF TO THE MOUTH OF A CANNON

HERE IS ONE of the many Canadian tin can dumps from which cans from your kitchen are taken by truck to a press to be converted into scrap metal. Because of insa-nitation in handling, ordinary tin cans must be burned.

THE CANS ARE SHOWN here being forked into the press box, the walls of which are collapsible and which presses them into bales in preparation for shipment to the steel mills. Thousands of pounds of pressure is exerted.

"What a thrill . . . to have people admire my hair!"

DON'T be discouraged about your hair. Given a chance—given the right care—most hair can be lovelier, more lustrous, worthy of admiration and receiving it!

"But that takes hours at the hairdresser's," you say? Not at all. Not if you use the modern formula, Danderine. Many of today's smartest-looking women rely on Danderine to keep their hair at its best—just applying Danderine to comb or brush each time before arranging their hair, and letting this active formula do the work. Danderine removes ugly, loose dandruff; adds lustre without adding oiliness; even makes hair easier to arrange, and helps it to hold a wave longer. Try it now; see for yourself!

FORMER AMERICAN SLOOP, now in British service, is shown on duty in a large convoy which left England for its first call on the coast of West Africa. Three thousand miles in peacetime, the trip is now 4,000, owing to the circuitous route plotted by the British admiralty and the convoy captains.

LIFEBOT DRILL is shown aboard one of the vessels in the huge convoy, the men jacketed in lifebelts as they stand by at their respective posts. The first stop, probably only one of many, is an important junction in the New York to Cairo shipment of American-made aircraft and other war material.

THE SUEZ CANAL, OBJECT OF AXIS AGGRESSION

A "SHIP OF THE DESERT" and its native rider comprise one means of guarding the Suez canal, British controlled gateway to the Middle East. The conquest of this vital waterway is said to be one of Hitler's primary war objectives.

ANOTHER SHIP OF THE DESERT is this large ocean liner, apparently crossing a sea of sand, but really passing through the Suez canal in one of the flat sections of the isthmus. An average ship requires at least 12 hours to pass down through this long, lockless ribbon of water.

PROTECTION AGAINST FIRE HAZARD is even provided for ships using this artificial river. Suspended at regular intervals along the entire length of the canal are these floating buoys. In case of fire aboard an oil tanker, an isolating ring is formed around it by the buoys.

FOR MORE THAN 100 miles, through the hot Egyptian sands, the canal is constantly under the eagle eye of native troops. Although nominally owned by a French-controlled company, the Suez is actually under control of the British navy.

AT THE ENTRANCE of this gateway to the east is situated the colorful and beautiful city of Port Said. One of its tree-bedecked avenues is pictured from the canal side. Almost 5,000 miles are cut off the sea routes from Europe to the east by the canal, a "ditch in the desert."

THE SUEZ CANAL, for 80 years an agent of British and French imperialism, is now an objective of Axis imperialism in World War No. 2. Here The Star Weekly shows the famous ribbon of water which cuts 5,000 miles off sea routes from Europe to the east, Nominally the canal is operated by a private company, but now the British Navy is in actual control. An average ship requires about 12 hours to pass through the lockless, 100-mile stretch, the conquest of which is said to be Mussolini's primary war aim.

ON THE SPOT SHOTS OF LAST DAYS OF BATAAN

EVIDENCE of terrific Japanese bombardment which preceded the downfall of Bataan is this general view of a town on the now-famous peninsula. Everything in sight is destroyed, showing how stubbornly the American-Filipino forces held their lines in the face of heavy bombing and shelling. Only by continual attack did the Japs tire the defenders sufficiently to overwhelm them.

DYING JAP gets a drink of water from U.S. soldiers. Nurses and soldiers escaped to Corregidor by swimming across shark-infested waters and rowing small boats through bomb blasts and machine-gun fire.

HOUSES IN A BATAAN town go up in flames after a Jap bombing raid. Malaria and malnutrition are said to have caused more U.S. casualties than Japanese bullets. Before surrendering, the army scorched the Bataan earth.

INDIA COVETED BY JAPS AND NAZIS

AS JAP TROOPS draw close to enigmatic India, the world asks: How prepared is it? From 400,000,000 people can be drawn a huge army—50,000 have been joining up per month—but modern equipment is urgently needed.

WITH HIS COMRADES already doing yeoman service with the British forces in the Far East, the Indian soldier maintains guard on the roads and hills of his homeland.

KNOWING THE ENEMY has to date shown little regard as to whether an objective is a military one or not, Indian women are taking intensive A.R.P. courses so that, should their swarming cities be blitzed, they will be ready.

MUCH HAS BEEN WRITTEN about the wonder and beauty of India's Taj Mahal. Built as a tribute to his wife by an Indian prince, this beautiful bit of Indian architecture might be a target for the ruthless Japanese bombers.

"OFF YOUR FOOD"?

DON'T LET faulty elimination dull your appetite, make you irritable, keep more regular and "in the pink," with a little ANDREWS every morning. It's absolutely without benefit!

*"You take your laxatives
-I'll take ANDREWS"*

HOW MANY times have you felt headachy, stomach upset, constipated, and taken a stiff laxative only to discover after bowels had moved that you still felt miserable? Such occurrences are common, for this reason—when bowels need aid, other organs are frequently off-key, too. They also need help. And you can't provide it with ordinary laxatives that help the bowels alone!

For the four-way help that means more thorough relief, make it a habit to depend on ANDREWS. Put some in a glass of water. See and hear it effervesce. Taste its pleasant flavor. And know when you drink it that ANDREWS will act four ways to provide welcome comfort faster—opening the bowels, stimulating the liver, helping the kidneys and neutralizing excess gastric acid, almost always present at such times. This is the action that has made ANDREWS famous.

Ask for ANDREWS at any drugstore. Four-oz. tin, 44¢; 8-oz. tin, 77¢; 10-oz. bottle, 89¢.

PERHAPS GERMANS AND JAPS still entertain hopes of meeting in the Khyber pass, famous back door to India, but these soldiers are sure such hopes won't materialize. They are members of the British Indian army, guarding the storied pass at Fort Jamrud. In the picture, we look toward Afghanistan.

TYPICAL OF OLD INDIA is this street scene in Jodhpur, where cattle, unmolested because of religious beliefs, are allowed to roam the city at will. A new India, rising from awakening Indian nationalism, appears imminent.

TROOPS TOUGHEN UP FOR ATTACK

COMMANDO is a title derived from the reckless semi-guerrillo soldiers who distinguished themselves in the Boer war. But the commando today must have far greater skill to match conditions of modern war. Scrambling through barbed-wire entanglements and scaling ten-foot walls is only part of his job.

CROSSING barbed wire and mine fields is another art the commando must acquire. Any man has to be tough to get into the commandos in the first place, and tougher still to stay in them. It takes hardihood to go through these exercises, and first-rate condition to come out and ask for more of them.

TROOPS now in training in England, both British and Canadian, are gradually swinging their training away from defensive to offensive training tactics, and the commandos, definitely an offensive force, have already shown their prowess in lightning stabs against German-held points on the European coast. Allied military experts have suggested that even if all-out invasion is not yet practicable, commando raids can still do much to keep Nazis jittery.

TANKS-LADIES LIFT' EM-CANADIANS DRIVE 'EM

APPARENTLY A CLUMSY, CRAWLING MONSTER, this tank lends itself to manoeuvres which require the delicate poise and agility of a cat. Here one has been driven on to a fallen tree trunk in England, and balanced so that the girl on top can teeter its 16 tons with ease. The acrobatic young lady is Miss Edna Hancox, member of the staff of the chief inspector of mechanism in Birmingham, and an assistant in the unladylike job of checking up on machinery. After this picture was taken, Miss Hancox descended and tested the tank's balance by easily lifting an end of it with one hand.

AN AMERICAN-BUILT tank is shown here trundling down a frozen stream in England during exercises carried out by units of a Canadian armored division. This type U.S. tank is a 30-ton heavy medium cruiser carrying one three-inch gun and five machine-guns of varying calibre. They have been named the "General Lee" after the fighting Confederate leader of the U.S. civil war. This type already has been superseded by a newer design. Standard equipment for Canadian "panzers" in this class will be the 36-ton "Ram" designed by a Canadian, Major-General F. F. Worthington.

STRIKING HARD AND FAST, submarines of the United Nations are playing an important part in disrupting the sea supply lines of the Axis. Chief weapon is its torpedo or "tin fish," and above is seen a ticklish moment as this weapon is eased gently into the tubes. A torpedo costs about $10,000.

GETTING INTO A BUNK calls for neat manoeuvring, and this crew member demonstrates what is a familiar routine to him. Submarines usually operate in packs from a "mother" or depot ship, and only put in for brief refuelling periods. When on the surface, the men get all the sunlight they can.

HAND-PICKED PERSONNEL, all of whom go through stiff preliminary courses, form the crew. They are given special pay and all are volunteers. There are at least three commissioned officers on board. Above, the only ship's boat is stowed away in a compartment in the hull, for use by the commander.

Extra Strength

Our patented strengthening process unites wood and lead inseparably. You will never break a MIKADO point in normal use.

Smoothness

Rare waxes sealed in every MIKADO lead makes writing smoother.

WEAR

A MIKADO pencil will write 35 miles of clear black lines by actual test.

AT NO EXTRA COST

Buy "Chemi-Sealed" MIKADO pencils because they cost no more than other top-grade pencils. Their extra-strength, smoothness and wear will save you money.

TEMPLETON'S T-R-C's

THE LAST GLIMPSE of daylight before the submarine dives is caught by the commander. He has just left the conning tower and is closing the hatch. Normally the sub will not surface in daylight again until patrol is over.

EVERY INCH OF SPACE is utilized to the utmost on board a submarine by reason of the close quarters. Above picture was taken through a bulkhead door and gives a glimpse of the engine room. Watertight doors such as that above honeycomb the hull so that any area in the ship can be shut off.

40,000 CANADIANS MAKE PLANES

IT'S A TAIL ASSEMBLY of an Anson bomber these girls are working on. They are rubbing "dope" into spaces in the fabric to give it strength and provide a smooth surface for air flow. Windows in this air-conditioned department are never opened. The number of men and women employed in Canada's rapidly expanding aircraft industry now amounts to 40,000 and will greatly increase, particularly in respect to women. Ralph B. Bell, director of production, states that by this year's end Canada will have 10,000 planes in use in its air training plan. The U.S. equivalent is 120,000 planes.

NO TIME IS LOST by these mechanics in bolting the powerful engines into place on the assembly line. First line aircraft of six leading types are being or will be made this year in Canada, including fighters and several types of bombers—one a dive-bomber said better than a Stuka.

ONE OF MANY thousands of Canadian girls who are employed at the De Havilland airplane plant in the Toronto area is Miss Pat Derrick, and she is operating a machine known as a "vertical miller." It produces a part for an Anson training bomber. This plant makes 115 planes a month.

CHINA NOW READY FOR OFFENSIVE WITH U.S. AID

AMERICAN AID to China has now reached such proportions, say Chinese military experts, that plans for the long-awaited Chinese offensive against the Jap invaders are now virtually complete. Here is a hospital at Changsha, shown after a severe Jap bombardment of the city a short time ago.

AFTER THE GREAT Chinese victory at Changsha, refugees who had been compelled to flee from the city before the Japanese invasion now stream back to their homes. Devastation of many of China's most densely populated cities in Japanese air-raids have caused many scenes such as this. As can be seen, few of the refugees have little more than what they can carry in their baskets. But Chinese morale has been remarkable in the face of air assaults.

IN THE CHANGSHA battle, Japanese forces lost more than 21,000 men. Here is one Jap prisoner after his capture. A comparative lull followed this engagement, but Chinese troops are ready for further offensive action.
